

LYDD GEORGE PUTS GAG RULE IN PARLIAMENT

Outdoes 'Czar Reid' with Ruthless Hand.

BY JOHN S. STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
LONDON, Jan. 1.—The first session of the third parliament of King George V, has made several records. It has made a record for one of the longest sessions, beginning on Feb. 11 and continuing right up to Christmas. The most ruthless government majority in the history of Westminster has made a record for the most persistent application of the gag rule in the history of British legislation.

The election which returned the present government to power was the victory election. All sorts and conditions of men were swept into parliament on the wave of popular excitement which succeeded the victorious ending of the war.

Surprise to Lloyd George.
The result was a surprise even to Lloyd George himself. He expected a large majority, but he did not expect anything like the overwhelming majority he obtained. He started the session with 525 members of his coalition party against 108 opposition members made up of "free liberals," labor men, and independents. In addition to these there were seventy-three Sinn Fein members who refused to attend parliament.

In such conditions it is natural to expect that the business of the mother of parliaments would be rather one-sided, but such one-sidedness has been displayed in this parliament as beyond all expectations.

In the days of Czar Reed Americans thought that they could teach the stately parliaments of Europe something about party government. Speaker Lowther, although not a party official, is the speaker of the United States house of representatives, could give Speaker Reed points and then have a lot to spare.

Rights to Question.
There are several recognized methods by which a minority in the house of commons can secure at least a hearing for its views. All these methods were ruthlessly scrapped by Lloyd George's ruthless majority. One, and the most usual and most effective is the method of questioning various ministers.

Any member of the house has the right to question a minister and to expect a reasonable answer. In the old days all sorts of information about Ireland, about Egypt, about Persia and other parts of the world where Great Britain's policy is open to criticism could have been put on the question paper, and ministers would have at least made a pretense of a reasonable answer.

How Laid Is Applied.
Further information could have been extracted by the method of supplementary questions, and a debate might have been raised. In this parliament in nine cases out of ten when inconvenient questions were asked the minister blandly refused to answer on the ground that it would be inadvisable in the present conditions of the country. The questioner, or referred the questioner to a few months back to the same effect. Any previous promise of ruled out of order by the speaker, confident in the knowledge that he would be supported by an overwhelming majority of the house.

Another method of raising a debate on any question was to move the adjournment of the house. To do so requires the support of at least forty members, and although the opposition nominally mustered 108 votes, it was seldom possible to get forty of them to support such a motion. The result of it was that the opposition was effectively gagged.

BRITISH DEFEAT INDIAN 'REBELS' IN 3 DAY FIGHT

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Dispatches received here from British India under date of Dec. 18 and 20 show that there has been considerable fighting between the British expeditionary forces and the Afghan tribesmen. Severe losses were inflicted on the tribesmen, although the British suffered heavily. A dispatch from Mandannakach, dated Dec. 18, says the British column, fighting against 2,000 Mahsuds and another force composed of Waziri and Mahsuds, drove the tribesmen from their positions. Airplanes followed the enemy, causing numbers of casualties. The British losses are described as light.

A further dispatch, dated Dec. 20, shows that on Dec. 19 the tribesmen counter attacked and the British were compelled to retire, owing to heavy casualties. The battle was continued on the 20th and the British in two hours recaptured the positions. The enemy casualties were reported as heavy.

Leaders of disturbances at Amritsar, in the Punjab district of British India, were released from jail at Lahore on Dec. 20.

LACK OF COAL, RAW MATERIALS, CHOKES GERMANY

Foreign Orders Pile Up, but Plants Lag.

BY PARKE BROWN.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright: 1926: By the Tribune Company.)

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—[Delayed.]—No-

number reports to the foreign trade

office in Berlin indicate that the economic situation in Germany improved only slightly in a few places and that generally it was worse on Dec. 1 than it was thirty days earlier.

While, as previously, much of the bad condition is ascribed to the shortage of coal and raw material, the reports now place more emphasis on the inadequate railroad service in all parts of the country.

Here Are Extracts.

Extracts from the survey of the industrial and labor situation follow:

"The industries of southern Germany, and, because of the Baltic blockade, those of East Prussia, suffer particularly under coal shortage. Many plants not within immediate reach of mines have been compelled to close.

"The labor situation has grown worse. Reports from 115 cities, not including Berlin, Hamburg, or Dresden, showed 185,000 jobs, most of these coming from the metal, leather, and textile industries.

"Fifty-three out of 319 steel plants—

one-sixth—are closed.

Foreign Orders Increasing.

"Conditions in the machine and electro-technical industries have grown worse. Many plants have closed, and others are about to. The situation in the vehicle factories is similar. Orders from abroad are increasing, but cannot be accepted, and existing contracts with buyers in Holland, France, Switzerland, and Norway have had to be cancelled.

"The optical manufacturers are busy, but cannot promise deliveries, except after long periods. Conditions in the chemical industry continue—because of the lack of coal, soda, and other necessities—to grow worse. Here also only part of the foreign contracts offered can be accepted.

Gasoline from America.

"The petroleum supply has benefited from the importation of 40,000 tons from America. Another 40,000 tons is expected. Twenty-two thousand tons of gasoline have come from America and Holland.

"There is no improvement in the glass and earthenware industries. Because of the coal shortage, the porcelain industry cannot reach the height of its peacetime production. Factories in Bavaria and Thuringia face shutdowns.

"Wholesalers in several branches report that their present business does not amount to 10 per cent of their pre-war business."

G. O. P. CHIEFS WILL PASS ON CAUCUS TANGLE

Smith to Call Meeting of State Leaders.

The members of the executive committee of the Republican state committee—and possibly all of the twenty-five members of the committee—will determine tomorrow whether the party organization shall stand responsible for a Republican caucus of constitutional convention delegates at Springfield Monday night.

State Chairman Frank L. Smith will arrive in Chicago this morning and will issue the call either for a session of the executive committee or of the full committee to be held at state headquarters at the Great Northern hotel.

Has Two Courses.

The state committee, according to Col. Smith, who was at his home in Dwight, faces two alternatives:

1. Formally to disavow the call for a caucus sent out by Secretary Justus L. Johnson of the state committee, separate the state organization from any responsibility for what delegates may do at Springfield, and direct that the party machinery keep hands off, or

2. To stand for the Johnson call, now that it has been sent out, against the express direction of Chairman Smith, urge all of the eighty-five Republican delegates-elect to go to the Monday night caucus and make the organization of the convention a strictly party affair. In this event, Chairman Smith, undoubtedly, will be in Springfield Monday night and do the presiding. Secretary Johnson, in issuing the call, said that he, the secretary, would preside.

Smith States Position.

"My position is simple," Chairman Smith said. "Here is a proposition that is of vital interest and importance to the Republican party in Illinois. It is certainly of sufficient magnitude to be taken up and considered by the duly elected members of the state committee, of which I am the chairman, and by the party organization for which I am officially responsible.

"It has been made of too great importance for the committee's secretary to assume merely that it was a matter of routine for him to issue the call. As chairman, I promise that the members of the committee shall pass upon the merits of the request that has been made to the state committee by part of the Republican delegates to the convention. If it is determined by the state committee that it is a case of good judgment for the party organization to proceed with holding a caucus, I shall acquiesce and shall be at Springfield Monday night to preside if a caucus is held."

Caucus Friends Jubilant.

The pro-caucus Republicans were jubilant yesterday when they learned that Secretary Johnson had issued the caucus call, officially, on behalf of the state committee, despite the orders of Chairman Smith to the contrary. Col. Smith had directed Secretary Johnson to forward the request for a caucus signed by forty-eight Republicans to him at the Chicago headquarters, so that the party organization could pass upon it. U. S. Contract to Teach School
Spills Chicago Girl's Horseback Honeymoon.

Mrs. Herbert Woods

Uncle Sam's pretty good old uncle, but, take it from Mrs. Herbert Woods of Alton, Ill., he's whimsical at times.

Mrs. Woods until Christmas eve was Miss Etta Ohlhorst of Chicago. She formerly was a Lake View high school student and is well known as an athlete. She and her brother Curtis are wards of an aunt, Miss Frieda Woehlke of 558 Oakdale avenue.

Recently the Chicago girl went to Alton to teach physical culture in a school. That's how she met Mr. Woods. They made all sorts of plans for their honeymoon, among which was one to ride a horseback immediately after the wedding to Chicago. Well, they were married on Christmas eve, but last Monday, when she announced at the school that she wished to resign, officials insisted she must remain until the end of the term. So there she is.

announcement came from Aurora that the call was in the mail.

"There will be between sixty and sixty-five Republicans in the Monday night caucus," was the claim made at pro-caucus headquarters.

Should it happen that the executive committee or the state committee determines the Johnson call shall not be quashed, the report last night was that all of the eighty-five Republicans will be urged to go to the caucus, in which case, it was whispered, the forces that have been making the fight for a caucus would fall to hold control. Senator Curtis' chances of winning the caucus nomination, it is understood, depend upon a caucus not larger than sixty-three or sixty-five members.

Lee Mitchell of Aurora, leader of the pro-caucus wing, said Chairman Smith would have nothing to do with the caucus, and that Secretary Johnson would have nothing to do with the caucus, and that Secretary Johnson would have nothing to do with the caucus, and that Secretary Johnson would have nothing to do with the caucus.

DELEGATES GIVE VIEWS ON NEW CONSTITUTION

Tell The Tribune What Should Be Made
Basic Law.

The Illinois constitutional convention assemblies at Springfield at noon next Tuesday. It will be the first convention that has been held since the adjournment of the body that formulated the constitution of 1870.

The 1920 convention will be composed of 102 delegates, thirty-eight from Cook county and sixty-four from the counties outside of Cook county. Of these eighty-five are elected as Republicans and seventeen as Democrats. Gov. Warden will preside over the convention until its president is duly elected.

Delegates Give Views.

Each of the delegates was requested by THE TRIBUNE to furnish a tabloid summary of his own views as to what the convention ought to accomplish, keeping his statement within 100 words if possible. The request specified that no pledge or promise was sought from any delegate with respect to any matter suggested. The replies will be published from day to day. The first of them follows:

BY GEORGE C. GALE.

(Salem, Forty-third District.)

It is a pretty large order to put one's ideas as to the constitutional convention into 100 words, but here is the best I can do as to what I think the new constitution should contain:

1. A reasonable limitation of Cook county's membership in the legislature.

2. Fair home rule for Chicago.

3. Revision of the revenue clause enabling the legislature to enact honest tax laws permitting efficient administration of our revenue system.

4. Complete suffrage for women.

5. Revision of the judiciary system.

6. Cutting out all detail, so that the constitution shall express general principles only.

7. Using the same words throughout the document wherever the same meaning is to be expressed and coordinating all the clauses, so that the constitution may be complete, clear, consistent, and concise.

Of course, there are a great many other suggestions to be considered, on most of which I fear and suspect I take the unpopular view. I do not believe in the initiative and referendum. I believe some means should be devised whereby strikes and lockouts would not be permitted or could not occur, and an arbitration system substituted, which would be fair to employer and employe. I am also very doubtful as to the wisdom of minority representation, but if the suggestions I have made above can be carried out, we would at least have a workable and reasonable constitution.

BY JOHN J. GORMAN.

(Chicago, Second District.)

Out of all the speculations being indulged in, there seems to emerge a unanimity that the constitutional convention will attend most closely to the problem of providing legislative machinery for equitable taxation of all classes of property and to a program for home rule for municipalities.

Then there loom up as other important subjects for the operating body of the convention a balancing of representation in the general assembly predicated upon the basis of area in lieu of population; the judicial labyrinth with its posthumous treatment of litigious subjects and objects; the "to-be-or-not-to-be" of the extant system of minority representation; a method of amending the constitution so that it will keep within at least a half dozen leagues of the march of human progress; equal suffrage; the initiative and referendum, and a revision of the present unanimous jury verdict anachronism.

As one who has been called and chosen I approach my labors with an open mind. I expect to reach the convention city via the Alton or the I. C., and not astride a hobby.

I know that our present organic law is infected with lesions, but it is not a cadaverous statement within 100 words if possible. We, the delegates, must exercise much prudence, lest in avoiding Scylla, we encounter Charybdis.

Our norm should be: Stop! Look! Listen!

BY WILLIAM H. CRUDEN.

(Chicago, Eleventh District.)

In my judgment the present constitution of Illinois can, with a very few changes, become all that any American constitution should require.

I have determined that no vote of mine shall be instrumental in removing from it that which is conservative, nor adding to it anything radical or irrational.

If the press of our state, and especially Chicago, will help us face the problem to be solved for the well-being of the people, we can accomplish much. Among the essentials are: United front—Property classified to insure equality in taxation, and especially to provide an exemption of $1,000 on household goods and chattels.

Home rule.

Modern judicial practice and procedure.

Equal suffrage for women.

Amend the amending article so that no other constitutional convention will be necessary for many years.

Fewer elections rather than too many appointments, by the so-called ballot plan. I do not favor too much one man power. The safety of America lies in elections.

The initiative and referendum will be the "big noise." It has never been on show in such form as I favor, and its proponents would run away if they saw it when suitable to me.

In short, the constitution should be to us in civil law what the ten commandments are in divine law, and as brief in form as possible. Under it the people should be able to procure from the legislature from time to time enactments suitable to the progress of the times.

BY LEE MITCHELL.

(Aurora, Fourteenth District.)

The duty of the constitutional convention, as I see it, is to construct:

1. A constitution composed only of fundamental legal principles, which gives to our successive legislatures freedom to meet those future needs that we cannot anticipate.

2. A constitution which recognizes that the representative form of government is a better government than a pure democracy and which tries to make our officers more truly representative.

3. A constitution which will seek a more equitable distribution of property without resorting to radical or socialistic reforms.

BY A. F. GOODYEAR.

(Waukegan, Twentieth District.)

The new constitution for Illinois should preserve the rights and liberties inherited from our fathers and the fundamental principles of government established by them; it should limit the representation of large districts; Chicago should be given a just measure of home rule, an equitable plan for raising public revenues should be provided; a new judicial system should be enacted; equal suffrage should be granted, and the occasion for strikes affecting the public be removed by the establishment of a tribunal having power to examine into and adjust all differences between labor and capital.

BY RODNEY H. BRANDON.

(Mooseheart, Fourteenth District.)

A limitation of Cook county in both houses, but such a measure of home rule as will make this no injustice; unlimited suffrage for women; revenue production by a tax in proper proportion, upon at least two classes of property, and more assurance that all property will contribute; abolition of cumulative voting; a greater facility for constitutional amendment, and an acknowledgment by the state that every child is entitled to such an education as will result in self-support and good citizenship, whether the child be rich or poor—these are, in my judgment, the chief possibilities of the constitutional convention.

BY WILLIAM A. WALL.

(Mound City, Fifteenth District.)

The constitutional convention should preserve at least 80 per cent of the present constitution; make complete revision of the revenue system; few changes in the judicial system; give representation of large districts; Chicago a large measure of home rule but at the same time save it from itself; limit its representation in the general assembly in both houses and senate; bury the initiative referendum, recall and gateway amendment in Gov. Dunne's backyard; give universal suffrage to women making more ballots, but not shorter; give the greatest measure of liberty to the people consistent with law and order, the greatest possible security to property and this will bring tranquility, peace and prosperity and Egypt will vote for ratification.

BY CHARLES E. WOODWARD.

(Ottawa, Thirty-ninth District.)

The constitution should be direct, concise, simple. It should contain fundamentals only. The government established should be sound but elastic. The republican form must be preserved in its purity and integrity. Legislative, executive, and judicial departments should be organized upon the principles, respectively, of representation, responsibility, and expediency. A new principle of taxation must be inserted. Chicago and downstate interests are reciprocal, not antagonistic. Each must yield something to the other. County, township, and municipal government and finance will receive attention. An opportunity exists to demonstrate sound principles of constitution making.

White cost of living has been going up in the balloon, railroad freight rates have been doing the parachute drop.

A statement that "freight rates were 100 per cent lower in 1918 than they were in 1888," despite the McAdoo 25 per cent raise in May, 1918, was made public yesterday by the bureau of railroad news and statistics. With it went tables bearing on the financial troubles of the roads, showing their plight in 1917 before federal control, and the relief they now stand in need of on the eve of their return to private owners March 1, more than a full year behind their normal program of extensions and improvements and with 1920 looming up, with a traffic demand one-third greater than in 1916.

Development at Standstill.

The dead center on which the roads are almost resting is further shown in compilations put forth by the Railway Age, pointing out that in 1919 only 484 miles of new lines were laid in the United States, while 689 miles of main track were abandoned, the most complete standstill in railroad development since the first rail was laid. Up to 1915, it points out, America's mileage was increasing steadily, but during the three years, 1917-1919, 3,319 miles of lines were abandoned, while only 2,386 miles of extensions, branch and other track, were built, a net decrease of 933 miles.

New Low Records, too, were set in replacement, and extension of rolling stock.

"Until this year," says the Railway Age, "the smallest number of freight cars ever ordered in any year for the railroads of the United States since 1901 was 62,669, this in 1908. In 1919 the number of freight cars ordered was only 21,694, and nearly all these were placed by private car lines, as the standard 40-foot flat cars, gondolas, and hoppers. The number of freight cars built for use on United States railroads was much more satisfactory, being 100,416. The result, of course, of the number of freight cars built so far exceeding the number ordered is that at the end of the year the car builders have almost no orders for American railroads left on their books."

As to passenger cars, only 423 were ordered in the two years of government control. This was the smallest number ordered in a single year before, starting with 1901. The Railway Age says only 214 locomotives were ordered in 1919, as compared with a previous low record since 1901 of 1,162 and a high record of 6,265.

The locomotive and car builders of the United States are today practically out of orders," it says.

Traffic Exceeds Equipment.

Between 1915 and 1919 freight traffic increased 45 per cent and passenger traffic 43 per cent, while the number of freight cars has increased less than 2 per cent and passenger cars only 2 1/2 per cent.

The Railway Age presents some interesting estimates of facilities needed within the next three years to bring the roads up to the normal demand. They aggregate some seven billion dollars, as follows:

24,000 passenger cars.....	$ 555,000,000
11,000 freight cars.....	2,400,000,000
12,000 locomotives.....	911,000,000
6,000 miles new line.....	600,000,000
15,000 miles other main line and 30,000 miles of yard and siding tracks.....	1,250,000,000
10,000 miles black signals.....	55,000,000
Reduction of grades and curvature, etc.....	600,000,000
Re-line houses and shops.....	250,000,000
Shop equipment and tools.....	61,250,000
Station buildings.....	300,000,000

As to the dropping freight rates in the last 30 years, the figures of the bureau of statistics show that in 1888 the receipts of the roads per ton-mile were a trifle over 1 cent. In 1918 they were 8.62 mills. They stood at just about the same figure as in 1894, which was about the time that living prices began to climb.

Here is one rather startling fact indicated by the tables:

For the decade 1890-1900, the average freight receipts per ton-mile were 8.39 mills. In 1917 the figure was 7.28 mills. In other words, the rate in 1917 was 13.2 per cent less than in the 1890-1900 period. Ever since that period prices and index numbers of cost of living have been steadily mounting. The dollar of 1890-1900 had perhaps three times as much purchasing power as the dollar of today.

How They Did It.

The ability of the roads to perform while rates went down and costs went skyward was due, of course, to the wonderful increase in operating efficiency. Heavier rails, bigger locomotives, larger cars, reduced grades, tunnelled mountains made it possible. In the thirty years the average tons in a train grew from 176 in 1888 to 656 in 1918. The ten years from 1906 to 1916 tell the story. In this period the roads increased wages about $450,000,000. The average receipts per passenger per mile increased a trifle, while freight receipts declined from 7.48 mills in 1906 to 7.14 mills in 1916.

But the number of tons per loaded car increased from 19.9 to 22.4. The number of loaded cars per train went from 18.2 to 23.4, and the average tons in a train increased from 344 to 534, or 55 per cent. Thus, although average receipts per ton mile declined, the earnings per train mile increased from $2.61 to $2.83, or about 50 per cent. But rates dropped and costs increased faster than any growth in efficiency of operation could keep pace, and even before the war the experts were clamoring that without financial relief the roads would be unable to meet growing traffic demands and industry and commerce would be crippled.

LOAN TO BRITAIN
BRANDED "MYTH"

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Viscount Grey did not come to America to raise money for Great Britain, and he is leaving the United States without any assurance that the American government will extend official loans to England, was the statement given out by the ambassador's secretary this afternoon in denial of published reports that the Wilson administration has promised Lord Grey a loan of $13,000,000,000.

Sir George E. Grey, who, according to the same report, has come to America to arrange the details of the immense loan, denied to the United States that he had any knowledge of the demand for a $13,000,000,000 loan, or a loan for any such gigantic sum, though he has pointed out that Europe will need a loan from this country for its financial and industrial rehabilitation of the thirteen billion mark, Sir George said.

"You may categorically deny the statements that the United States has agreed to loan England money and that I am to negotiate the details," Sir George stated. "I have absolutely no knowledge of the proposition."

London newspapers besieged the British ambassador with cables through the day attempting to obtain confirmation or denial of the unprecedented loan.

In reply, Lord Grey sent them a complete denial.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Great Britain has concluded no arrangement with the United States government for obtaining huge new loans, officials declared today.

"It is an absolute, unwarranted, unmitigated lie," said W. R. G. Harding, governor of the federal reserve board, in commenting on published reports that Viscount Grey had obtained promise for a loan of $13,000,000,000. "We don't intend to handle a nickel of that kind of a loan, and never heard anything about it before."

The British embassy professed ignorance.

Arrangements to Fund Huge War Loans Going On

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Arrangements for funding all interests on obligations of the allied governments held by the United States are being made by the treasury department. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Rathbone is now in Paris working out the details and preparing documents for the signature of the secretary of the treasury.

The negotiations, it is reported, resulted in an understanding for the refunding not only of this interest charge, which aggregates somewhat over $450,000,000 a year, but of the principal of the loans and advances made to the various allied governments during the war.

Advances and loans to the foreign powers affected in the exchange of securities total nearly the full $10,000,000,000 of credits provided for by congress.

CHICAGO'S HUGE SCHOOL PLANT; VISTA OF FUTURE

Great College Dream of Mortenson.

The Most Important Man in Chicago: Seventh Glances; the Plant at His Command.

BY EYE WITNESS.

The man with a program has a tremendous state. But what is a program without a plant—and the power to use it?

As to power, the new state law defining the duties of the superintendent of schools in Illinois cities with a population of over 100,000 is explicit and its workings are bound to be salutary in many respects.

"Under the old law," said Supt. Mortenson in continuing the talk on his program and the prospects of a reasonably prompt realization of it, "the superintendent of schools was a teacher and more or less a creature of the board of education—not an administrator. He could not formulate a program with any very sustaining hope of being able to carry it steadily forward to realization."

"The man year to year basis on which he worked tended to take the heart out of him even if he possessed the administrative faculty. The trouble was, as I said, there is no question about tenure now."

A Tremendous Plant.

And what a plant it is for a wise and honest administrator to work with! It is doubtful whether you—who pay for it—really know how tremendous it is. Peter Mortenson spoke of it with a grave enthusiasm that was perhaps as near to exultation as he ever allows any subject to carry him. The enthusiasm being tempered, I suppose, by a very honest man's consciousness of the heavy responsibility which control of so vast and intricate a mechanism lays upon him.

"We own," he said, "a hundred million dollars' worth of schools and grounds. There is no debt whatever. That is unique. We have the most complete system of playgrounds of any large city. Our technical high school system is equipped as well as any industrial plant, and the pupils are taught to do practical things on real machines."

"Our annual budget runs to fourteen millions in salaries. The gave these men offhand and did not claim close exactness for them) and nineteen mil-

By THE SENATOR

"What's the inside dope on McAdoo?" asks a Springfield oracle. I found an entertaining bunch of cronies outside O. O. P. headquarters at the Congress.

"Simple and easy. He's blown up," says I. "That's old news. I breathe you that weeks ago."

"Why did he blow?" says one of Lou Emmerson's lads.

"Short story—three chapters," says I. "His boom sprang a pinhole in the radiator when he quit his job to go into the movie. He saw what was coming, so he dropped the railroad like a hot spud and left Hines holding the bag. Besides, he said he couldn't live on a cabinet member's salary and had to earn more dough, which sounds reasonable enough."

"But when he hooked up with the screen comedians he put his White House ambitions on the bum. With a public man has got to be a serious guy. Many of our public men, of course, are jokes, but we aren't inclined to elect jokes to high office. The funny man gets the laughs on the stump, but it isn't the serious bird who cops the votes at the polls."

"When McAdoo became lawyer for the movie stars the politicians said it opened him to the jokers, and if he got the nomination his opponent would laugh him to defeat by picturing him as running on fat dogs like Charlie lions for other purposes. Our school buildings number in the neighborhood of 500 and during the year ended June 30, 1919, we spent nearly a million for new schoolhouses and three and a quarter millions on new buildings."

Some Impressive Figures. More impressive than these bald statements of values and equipments that Mr. Mortenson made were some calculations I jotted out for myself. For example, the value of the buildings and grounds of the public school system of Chicago exceeds today by $28,000,000 the value of the property of the congregational churches in the United States—as fixed by statistics of 1916—and is only $3,000,000 less than the value of the holdings of the Lutheran church in this country.

But more inspiring to Chicago teachers and administrators of vision must be the thought of the human host that passes through their hands, the host whose ideals and destinies are shaped by them—ideals and destinies, which are more or less directly affected by the ideals of the head teacher and administrator, Peter Mortenson.

Children representing at least twenty-one nationalities and races are enrolled in the public schools of Chicago. It is an army recruited from as far south as the coast of Syria and from as far north as the arctic city of Tromsø, and the entire machine which has Peter Mortenson's hand on the lever carries them from A, B, C through the sixth book of Virgil. And and of their counsel in matters relating to the child's mind and the development of courses of study."

Face Immense Task.

With a plant such as has been described and with that "new and happier" spirit which he has defined, this thoughtful, constructive man faces the immense task of working out a program into which he has packed measures and problems of the highest moment—the problems of teacher training and supply; of a new normal school on the northwest side; of continuation schools and vocational guidance; of Americanization work for the foreigner.

"It is a problem," he says, "is different but not necessarily inferior to ourselves"; of building, zoning, and siting; of extension of the Junior high school system; of the creation of technical training; of the creation of agricultural schools; of the text book shortage, and finally, his dearest dream, the founding of "The College of the City of Chicago."

His New Year Message. Fifteen great, constructive measures, it is a program for a statesman as well as an educator.

He knows that all these good things will not come by wishing or by making, and his New Year message to us all is this:

"The prime need is for everybody to get together—and that is coming, supplementary to that, a great need is that we all recognize that the schools are for the benefit of the child, and not for some faction to control."

AUTO GAS KILLS MAN; DAUGHTER FINDS HIS BODY

Albert H. Miller, an ice dealer, was found dead in a garage in the rear of his home at 2040 Jackson boulevard, yesterday afternoon. He had been asphyxiated by gas from the exhaust of his automobile.

Mrs. Miller had gone to the garage in the morning to get her car and drive over to the home to feed her team. He started the motor, then sat down behind the wheel and another while waiting for the engine to warm up. Mrs. Miller, who lives in the rear of the garage, noticed the key in the door of the garage about 2 o'clock and called upstairs through the tube to ask Mrs. Miller to get the car.

Mrs. Miller, who was in the kitchen, saw the key in the tube to the garage. It was filled with fumes and the engine of the car was still running. She called for her father several times and finally found his body. Mr. Miller is survived by his widow and three daughters.

ORGANIZING THE CONVENTION.

It is to be hoped the constitutional convention will not begin in a bitter factional row over organization. If it does, the proceedings of the convention will be complicated from the beginning by factors of personal and factional resentment and hostility which ought not to have any place in the convention. A good part of the public will view its deliberations with suspicion and receive its recommendations with less confidence, perhaps, than they may deserve.

This would be a great pity and a great injustice to the people of the state, who have incurred the considerable expense of electing, maintaining, and submitting the conclusions of the convention, and who have a right to demand that its proceedings shall be directed not to personal, factional, or party ends, but solely to public spirited deliberation and the formulation of the best possible constitution for the state.

The voters of the state did their part by assuming the expense of the convention and by selecting, with discrimination, a body of delegates representing a high level of intelligence and character.

The organization and deliberations of the convention should be on the same plane. We do not see any justifiable cause for serious factional or sectional differences. The principles which ought to govern the choice of a presiding officer are clear and simple. He should be a man of experience and good judgment, one who is able to keep the convention functioning effectively as a deliberative body, to direct it away from stalemates and futile debates, and hold it on the road toward practical proposals which the general good sense of the voters are likely to approve.

His selection ought not only to represent a majority preference; it ought to be such as the whole convention can in fair-mindedness cordially accept. So far as the question of whether the presiding officer should be a Chicago delegate or one from outside the city, from the north counties, the middle or the south, we could wish the question of locality could be ruled out and the very best man chosen, regardless of residence. But that is out of the question, and since locality is to be a factor we believe the Chicago delegates and the people of Chicago will recognize that since there are more people without Chicago than within, a downstate delegate should be chosen. Chicago has a right, however, to ask that the downstate delegate shall be the best man obtainable from those thus available.

Neither the selection of a presiding officer nor the organization of the convention should be controlled by a minority, which is likely to be the practical result under a caucus plan. A conference acting broad-mindedly for the general benefit of the convention and with fair consideration of all elements will, in our opinion, accomplish better results.

AMERICA IN OPERA.

The place given in the current opera season to American work is not what we wish it might be. But that is the fault, we hope and believe, of the past rather than the present. A much more important place cannot now be given native creations because doubtless they do not exist. At any rate some recognition has been given, and thus far has been fully justified. Mr. Borowski's "Boudoir" has been given creditably, and the production of Mr. Carpenter's ballet drama, "The Birthday of the Infanta," in the exquisite setting of Mr. Jones, was a marked achievement in our operatic history. Now follows Mr. De Koven's opera, "Rip Van Winkle," to be given its premiere tonight. In this not even the theme is foreign. An American poet, Mr. Mackaye, and an American composer have selected one of the oldest and most familiar of our folk tales, and, although the singers are French, we may reasonably expect an intensely American accomplishment.

Certainly all this is at least a good beginning, proving what does not need proof, that we have American resources of talent and even genius available for the operatic stage. How foolish we are if we allow foreign standards and alien interests to be imposed upon us year after year. We do not urge a narrow provincialism in art. In a high and true sense there are no national boundaries in art. But in an equally true and a profounder sense there is no vital art that does not reveal race or nationality. There has never been a great body of artistic achievement that has not had its roots deep in the soil of race or nationality.

The American inspiration has been affected by many influences from abroad. That is inevitable, and even necessary. But an intense spirit of Americanism, using the term broadly, will invigorate our creation in the fine arts as certainly as it braces our morale in time of public trial. The great French critic, Viollet de Duc, said that a great artist must come up through the people, their habits, their customs, their daily living; and the American artists who feel sensitively what we know as America, its scenes, its thoughts and dreams, its customs and attitudes, its folk lore and history, the whole texture of its life, will create the works of art in all forms which will live and be a part of the world's many sided civilization.

Chicago prides itself, and with reason, on being emphatically American in spirit, in spite of its polyglot population, and nowhere should the American spirit in art be given more hospitable reception. We hope the Chicago opera, without lowering its standards, will each year give prominent place to American work which attains those standards. It should maintain this as the chief of its policies. We have had a great deal of mediocre work from continental composers. It is certain that Americans, now at work, can produce opera not only superior to this material but more congenial to our tastes and temperament. And in due time we shall have our own masterpieces.

OUR SATURNALIA.

In Washington at one of the big hotels a New Year's eve party included a United States senator. The party needed more than could be carried on the hip. It was brought in barrows or a van and waiters were hired to come with it. That was not the only wet United States senator.

It is a moral congress and it makes our laws, but it does not believe in carrying things to extremes—in carrying a law to enforcement and to respect for law. Chicago was just as drunk as it cared to be and as openly drunk as it wanted to be. So was every other city which ever had seen a drop of liquor.

This New Year's eve was more than an ordinary debauch. It was a debauch of lawlessness. The law was told to go to the devil. Disrespect for law began in the body which made it. Congress used a pretext which no moral object could make right and the country treated the law with the respect which was morally due it.

It was a disgrace to the nation. The wartime prohibition law in its spirit and in its words and its ways has been a moral disaster to the United States. It has been a fraud and it has made a fraud of law. It has increased the natural American insolence towards law. It has made ten law breakers where it found one. Authority is a jest and enforcement a joke.

One active official could have made a thousand arrests in Chicago Wednesday night. What is law to us? We are hypocrites when we make laws and law breakers after they are made.

WE ARE THE LEAGUE.

Will Europe accept our reservations? Will America be ostracized? Do the "blind leaguers" really believe these things? Let us read this paragraph:

"England is the financial clearing house for the whole of Europe, and for that reason needs enormous loans, which must be furnished by the United States. If sufficient money is forthcoming England and Europe will be all right; but if it is not, bankruptcy and a terrible scourge threaten all the countries over there."

Let us read it again. Was it uttered by a reservationist senator? Is it the verdict of some one who is trying to break the heart of the world? Is it some insidious propaganda?

It is not. It is the utterance of Sir George Paish, an Englishman. He is in the United States "to discuss the international financial situation with bankers with a view to raising further loans and to improve the exchange rate."

"Sir George believes 'a long term loan of a greater amount than any national loan ever negotiated is needed.' The United States has the money. In all probability the negotiation will be accomplished. Europe will be set right."

Europe will be saved. It will be saved by material resources. It will not be saved by talk of dreams. Idealism cannot feed the hungering. The heart of the world will not be kept beating by sighs and moans. We are getting to the point. Material resources will save the world, America has them. America will provide.

Where we are unable to offer resources we might fear the ostracism of the world. But we have the resources. This may be cold commercialism to the idealists. But the world runs on good security. It takes nothing for granted. It wants everything put down in the contract.

We need have no fear that Europe will ostracize us for demanding adequate security in the contract of the league of nations. Europe is too wise. Europe would never sign a covenant whose essentials were left to the good intentions of the parties. If intentions are good they are worth putting into legible writing. If we are to be protected by the covenant let us be protected in plain words.

Who in the league of nations would drop us from the world concert? Would it be England? Not with Sir George Paish on our shores asking for "enormous loans, which must be furnished by the United States."

Whatever is signed by the United States will be accepted in England. "England is the financial clearing house for the whole of Europe." Shall Europe offend its clearing house?

The maps of the world show what our allies have got out of the war. They show what we have got. We have got nothing we do not rightfully possess. We have asked for nothing but the privilege of protecting our own institutions. Is this such an unreasonable request?

This is our league of nations. It cannot be a going concern without us. And we are asking only that it be a fair league. We propose to take nothing from those that have it. We very likely shall stand sponsor for a great deal. Without us there would likely be a death of nations, to say nothing of a league of nations.

For the league—with reservations. Let us never fear that our reservations will not be accepted. Europe is coming over here after our reservations.

Editorial of the Day

IT'S THE WASTE, NOT THE COST, THAT HURTS.

[From the Detroit Free Press.]

Before the several investigations now under way are concluded it is quite probable that a good many Americans who were inclined to laugh at General Sherman's estimate of war will agree that the doughy old leader was not so far wrong. Making all due allowance for distortion through prejudice and unfamiliarity with the facts, enough has been adduced to give rise to the belief that the world war was won in spite of certain American officials in high places, rather than with their assistance.

The stories of waste in connection with our operations overseas are astounding even to those who have not been conditioned by the fact that it has not been openly encouraged. It is not so much the millions of dollars which were involved that hurts, for every American gave gladly in support of the cause in behalf of which we were involved. Resentment is kindled by the fact that so much of this money was not only squandered, but that in wasting it in this manner the progress of the war was actually hindered. Few are inclined to haggle over the cost if results are forthcoming, particularly when there is as much at stake as was involved in the struggle in France and elsewhere that American troops were in evidence. But at this late date it is humiliating, especially in the light of the wonderful achievements of the great mass of our men who went overseas, to find that there were so many incompetents in places of great responsibility.

Indignation at their conduct of affairs is equalled only by contemptation of the sorry spectacle afforded by those who it has been demonstrated proved traitors to their country here at home. It is a showing of which the nation can scarcely be proud, and belated justice will have to lay a heavy hand on the guilty wherever they are found if it is to soothe the feelings of an outraged public.

THE GOOD NAME OF FRISCO

IN March, 1900, a case of plague was discovered in the Chinese quarter in San Francisco. After some discussion back and forth this diagnosis was accepted upon by Dr. J. J. Kinyoun, surgeon for the U. S. Public Health service, and was accepted by the local health authorities. Since the disease was limited to Chinamen and the Chinese quarter it seemed unnecessary to disturb the remainder of the population, a law applying only to Chinamen was passed.

Powerful business interests figured out that it would hurt trade to have the presence of plague in San Francisco generally known. They put the pressure on hard. The existence of plague was denied. The law for its control came before the courts and they properly set it aside as unconstitutional because it applied only to Chinamen, but they went further and wrote into the verdict a statement that there was not and had not been any plague in San Francisco. The combination of business and politics reached out its long arm and made Washington refuse to stand by the truth. Dr. Kinyoun resigned.

Years later the same business-political combination realized that the former action was a mistake. Plague was there, they knew it and the country tributary knew it, and, having no confidence in the health administration, were afraid of San Francisco. The public health service was petitioned to come back into San Francisco, high grade health departments were organized and good appropriations for the control of plague were made.

But the disease had got a good foothold. The city of San Francisco was cleared of the disease, the Chinese quarter and all newly constructed property was razed. For many years there has been no plague in San Francisco. But in the meanwhile the disease had got out into the country and was affecting some of the small wild animals. In August, 1919, there was a small epidemic of pneumonic plague, fourteen cases with thirteen deaths. The most terrible form of the disease. This is the eighth outbreak of the disease among human beings in California since 1908. The health authorities have repeatedly called attention to the need of greater efforts to control the disease since that date.

Dr. W. H. Kellogg, secretary of the state board of health, says the disease became endemic among the ground squirrels of California. In other words, the disease is now at home among these animals and is liable to remain so permanently unless it is stamped out. Furthermore, he thinks this is a considerable menace to the country at large. An infected rat in a grain can carry the disease to any part of the United States. If carried to the colder sections of the country it is likely to develop into pneumonic form.

The country is menaced by reason of the action of a business-political combination.

IT'S DISPUTED QUESTION. E. H. T. wants to know if the use of saccharin tablets instead of sugar, coffee, tea, or cocoa in any way injurious to the body. Some claim it destroys the corpuscles in the body, others that it is perfectly harmless.

REPLY. Saccharin is a flavor and not a food. Taken in small doses it is harmless or nearly so. You will remember this was one of the sources of controversy when Roosevelt was president. Mr. Roosevelt contended that saccharin was harmless. Dr. Wiley that it was harmful. Dr. Albers, chief of the bureau of chemistry, takes the position that its use is moderately harmful.

THE FRIEND OF THE SOLDIER.

The Friend of the Soldier will cooperate with the war risk insurance bureau of the treasury department, 1307 Stock Exchange building, Chicago, and with the committee of the Chicago Bar association on legal assistance to soldiers and sailors, 105 West Monroe street.

Address inquiries to Friend of the Soldier, Chicago Tribune. Answers to as many as possible will be published in this department. To insure a personal reply an addressed and stamped envelope should be inclosed.

No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

TO TRACK BOND. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(Friend of the Soldier.)—I purchased a Liberty bond of the fourth Liberty loan through the navy department and completed my payments.

It last June. In July I was discharged, but have not heard anything about the bond. I have written to the bureau of navigation twice, but have received no reply. Please tell me how to have the bond traced. F. G. B.

You should have written to the navy liberty loan office in Washington, but it would probably hasten matters for you to have the bond traced at 1307 West Adams street trace your bond for you.

MARINE AVIATION OPEN. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(Friend of the Soldier.)—I am desirous of joining either the United States Marine Corps or the army aviation. It is possible to do so at this time? I could not join during the war, as I was under age. If I join do you think they would let me join the American Legion?

The aviation section of the army is not open for enlistment, but the marine aviation is. Apply to the marine corps recruiting station, 616 South State street, Chicago, for information. The men who served during the war are the only ones eligible to join the American Legion.

IS A CITIZEN. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(Friend of the Soldier.)—My son, an American citizen, endeavored to join each branch of the United States service, but, owing to his age, was rejected by each. He is now 17 years old and passed as 19 when he enlisted. Having sworn allegiance to the king of England (for the duration of the war only), will he be required to take oath of citizenship or take out citizenship papers when he reaches 21?

According to the United States laws a United States citizen cannot be expatriated while this country is at war. He therefore will not be considered as a subject of the King of England, but is a United States citizen.

PAID TO DISCHARGE. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(Friend of the Soldier.)—My son was slightly wounded in France and was sent to the headquarters of the 1st division, 1st corps, in Paris. He came back in October, 1919, and upon arrival was placed in the base hospital in Camp Dix, N. J., from where he was finally discharged on Dec. 19. He is entitled to pay while in the hospital? He claims that he signed the pay roll for the full amount, but that one man must have changed it to a smaller sum. He claims that he was discharged on Dec. 19, 1919. Kindly let me know where to apply for redress and oblige. C. H.

The soldier is entitled to pay up to the time of his discharge. Apply for the back pay to the enlisted pay section, room 3000, office, Lamon building, Washington, D. C.

"TIN HORN" WAR. Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 31.—(Friend of the Soldier.)—I was looking over a list of the wars in which the United States has been engaged. I am wondering which of these many wars or uprisings is referred to as the "tin horn" war? Please advise me in your column. I. C. N.

The "Tin Horn" war is the name often applied to the war on the Mexican border from 1911 to 1913.

DISCHARGE IS HONORABLE. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(Friend of the Soldier.)—Will you please tell through your column if I can get all issues? I was in the army about seven months. I was discharged honorably by S. C. D. on Nov. 14, 1918, and they told me to return all my clothes (or issue) as soon as I got home, and I did it. And now I would like to know if it is possible for me to get all that back and where? B. C. A.

Under a decision rendered Feb. 28, 1919, you are entitled to the equipment allowed to you honorably discharged soldier. As you have turned yours in apply for the equipment to the sales and issues branch, zone supply office, 1815 West Thirty-ninth-st., city.

PUT YOUR MONEY AWAY. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(Editor of the Tribune.)—Your editorial, "The Next American Panic," is fine and really constructive when viewed from a broad perspective. We have had addresses, reports, statistics, and about everything else to show that we, the American people, are indulging in a wild orgy of extravagance, but these somehow don't seem to hit us between the eyes.

It is high time that the public be warned that the law of the American economy has always held in the history of this country and still holds. We are certain to have to pay for the last few years and the longer we persist in our present state the more we pay in the end as the price of getting back to where we belong. G. W. Watson.

CITY SCATTERING ASHES. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(To the Friend of the People.)—Last week the city sent out two men through the alley to scatter garbage, and everything that you would find in an ash pile at this time of year. Every family in our block has been careful to keep the ashes and rubbish in a neat pile, out of consideration for those who own an auto.

It is impossible for an auto to pass over all of this rubbish without running the tires. But, aside from the above, the city has by continued practice filled in the streets with garbage and turned regular mudholes in the spring.

Must we taxpayers, who take pride in our surroundings, put up with this?

Upon investigation we find that no ashes were leveled in this alley, but all ashes were removed before complaint was received and just one day later the city was at it.

THOMAS H. BYRNE, Superintendent of Streets.

DANGEROUS SLEEPING. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(To the Friend of the People.)—We live in a frame house and have lived there four years. The roof has been in a leaky condition for some time, and the condition of the roof is in such a state that it is very likely to come down. We have notified the agent twice within two months, but he has not even looked at the ceiling. We think it dangerous to sleep in the room.

A. SWAIN, Notice has been served on the owner to "properly repair roof."

JOHN DILL ROBERTSON, Commissioner of Health.

BACK PAY. Chicago, Dec. 31.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—I am a hard working man and need the money badly, and would like to know if I can receive any help in collecting $9 which I have coming from my own auto.

REPLY. As but limited space can be given letters in this department, writers must confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Unless they give us their full names, and addresses their letters will not be considered. No manuscript will be returned unless the writer sends postage for that purpose.

FAIRNESS TO THE FILIPINOS. Macomb, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—I beg leave to invite your attention to a telegram which appeared in the Sunday issue, Dec. 28, of your paper and which presumably received your sanction. This telegram, which I am enclosing herewith, calls the Philippines the land of the head hunters. Permit me, Mr. Editor, to say that this is a gross misstatement of fact. The Philippines has become my favorite place because it has impressed me as being a paper that strives to be fair at all times, and to find this same paper making such a statement, or better said, misstatement, is indeed a shock to me. If this were an insignificant paper I might have dismissed the matter with a shrug of the shoulders, but such is not the case. Your paper is a daily paper, and it is a daily paper enjoys a very wide circulation and is therefore very likely to cause great harm by the publication of an untruth, even though it be done without malice. The telegram in question appears on the front page of the sporting section and its connection with so popular a pugilist as Dempsey enhances its potentiality for harm. When it is remembered that the American readers are lovers of sport, it is reasonable to suppose that this telegram will be taken up and read by many of our daily habit readers. No one who has peace on earth, in so far as the ratification of the treaty can bring this about, within a very short time.

RESOLVES ON HIS 73D NEW YEAR TO LOVE AND HONOR

Col. S. E. Bliss Weds His Secretary, Helen Weck

Col. Samuel E. Bliss began his seventy-third New Year by committing matrimony in the first degree. Then, having said "I Will" to everything the Rev. Frederick G. Budlong asked him, he ate the festive food his newly acquired relatives set before him, shook hands all around, and disappeared like a Lochinvar into the west.

The wedding of the well known hunter, marksman, and manufacturer to his secretary, Miss Helen Weck, took place at the home of the bride, 715 Aldine avenue, Elmer F. Weck, her nephew, was best man. Her sister, Miss Willis Alice Weck, was bridesmaid. Her mother gave her away.

Mysterious secrecy featured the colonel's staking of the Lohengrin. Ever since the license was taken out last Monday he has been as noncommittal as Mr. Sphinx of Egypt. Neither his housekeeper nor the bride's family were certain just when he was going to do what. They were, as one might say, in blissful ignorance.

"Helen and the colonel just naturally blew," said his new brother-in-law, Elmer E. Weck. "Before we knew what was happening, the pair were escorting three or four girls into a taxicab. And the next minute they were off in a cloud of exhaust smoke—where, we do not know."

MOTHER OF GIRL FEARS NEW WILL ESCAPE GALLOWS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Fear that Harry New will escape the rope is causing Mrs. Alice Lesser sleepless nights, according to statements today by close friends.

Mrs. Lesser, gray haired and crippled, mother of New's sweetheart and alleged victim, Freda Lesser, probably will witness the case tomorrow. She is counted upon as one of the strongest rebuttal witnesses for the state.

The defense will complete its case tomorrow, it is believed, with the testimony of five alienists, who will be asked lengthy hypothetical questions based on the testimony.

Forty wounded soldiers from the U. S. Public Health Service hospital, Forty-seventh street and Drexel boulevard, were guests of the guests of the Windemere hotel yesterday at a big New Year's dinner and entertainment. New Year's gifts were sent to 300 other men in the hospital by the residents at the hotel. Following the "feed" cigars were distributed among the discharged soldiers and when there was found to be a surplus the boys resorted to old A. E. P. tactics to settle the question of who should win the remainder. No, it wasn't a free for all; merely a friendly craps game with the hotel guests as referees.

Yellow Fever Raging in Mexico; Ports Quarantined

Tampico, Mex., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—An epidemic of yellow fever is raging in many cities and towns of the states of Yucatan, Campeche, Chiapas, and Oaxaca. Quarantine has been established against Salina Cruz, Progreso, Frontera, and other ports. It is stated that Vera Cruz is free of the disease.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Undersecretary of State Polk said today he had no intention of resigning and declined to amplify the statement.

4 MEXICANS DIE IN TEXAS; MEXICO SENDS PROTEST

Mexico City, Jan. 1.—The government today officially protested to the American government against the killing of four Mexican subjects in Texas during the latter part of December.

The protest states a laborer was killed by his section gang foreman, near Kyle, and that three members of his family were killed on a ranch near Jarrell, and that no murderer has been apprehended.

Ambassador Bonillas at Washington also was instructed to investigate the alleged detention and baggage searching at New York of Carlos Melendez, en route to Chile to assume the first secretaryship of the Mexican legation.

It is understood here that the American authorities claim to have found evidence in Melendez' baggage tending to prove that Mexico was endeavoring to form an alliance with Chile.

MAYOR'S CABINET TELLS HOW CITY FORGES AHEAD

Lowest Death Rate, Fewer Crimes, 1919 Record.

The year 1919 was replete with accomplishments and progress for the city government, according to the annual reports of Mayor Thompson's cabinet, made public yesterday.

The reports forecast that 1920 will see even greater improvements wrought by the I Will spirit of Chicago.

Even Chief Garrity, despite crime waves and the murder record, finds reason to rejoice, declaring "conditions during the last year are considerably better than the conditions which prevailed during the years preceding the war."

The record of municipal achievement, according to the reports, is as follows:

Police—From Jan. 1 to Dec. 15, 1919, 843 criminal complaints were made, "considerably fewer than in 1918," the year selected for comparison because of the war conditions during 1917 and 1918. The automobile squad recovered 4,175 of the 4,218 automobiles stolen. The recovered cars are valued at $5,139,516. Ten members of the department lost their lives during the year. The chief recommends that 1,400 policemen be added to the force and praises the work of the homicide squad, which has cleared up eleven murders since Oct. 15.

Fire—The year 1919 saw more extensions in the department than any year since 1891. Fire Marshal O'Connor reported. Seven new squads, three new hook and ladder companies, and two additional engine companies were installed. Motorization of the department is progressing rapidly, about 40 per cent of the apparatus being motor driven at present. The department responded to 29,181 alarms for 13,468 fires, as compared to 17,965 alarms in 1918 and 12,336 fires. Last year fire losses were $4,463,677, against $3,462,677 in 1918.

Board of Education—19,446 new pupils were enrolled in 1919; 12,471 in the elementary schools and 6,975 in the high schools. The board is paying close attention to the work of Americanization, having as its object the creation of the "America first American." Continuation schools, because of the passage of the continuation school law by the legislature, will be established this year for the use of about 50,000 minors who are employed. The outlook for this is bright, as "partisan interference" is at an end, the report of President Davis says.

Health—The death rate for the year was 12.76 a thousand population, which is the lowest in the history of the city, according to Health Commissioner Robertson's report. The establishment of the training school for home and public nurses has resulted in 2,100 women taking the course.

Controller—Prohibition cost the city $7,000,000 in saloon license revenues and in general the financial outlook for 1920 is gloomy, according to Controller Harding. However, the city managed to pay all bonds due from sinking funds, and the disposal of $9,600,000 worth of judgment funding bonds at their face value in payment of judgments, instead of selling them on the market, saved the city $282,500, Mr. Harding says.

Buildings—Commissioner Beotrom

reports the issuance of 4,523 building permits for structures to cost $102,906,166. In spite of the building strike the year ranks third in building activities in the city's history.

Engineering—One hundred and seventy million gallons daily was added to the city's water supply, the report of Engineer P. S. Coombs says. Plans for an improved water system, with a capacity of 2,400,000,000 gallons daily, enough for a city of 10,000,000 persons, have been laid. The new system would cost $65,000,000.

Gas and Electricity—New street lamps numbering 4,105 were added to the lighting system. At the close of 1918 the number of lamps was 45,639; now it is 49,639, Commissioner Keith reports.

Board of local improvements—The Michigan avenue boulevard link will be completed by June 1, according to President Faherty, and the ground-work has been laid for the Chicago plan commission's program of west side street improvements, involving an outlay of $27,400,000. In 1919 fifty-three miles of streets were paved and 100 miles of new sidewalks laid at a cost of $4,167,000.

Bureau of streets—Last year 3,485,000 square yards of streets were cleaned with horse drawn flushers and $2,380,300 square yards with motor driven flushers. Superintendent of Streets Byrne recommends that all flushers be motorized.

Water utility—Gross collections of $7,356,000 were made for use of city water, an increase of $52,900, or 4.6 per cent, over the previous year.

Forestry—Ten thousand trees were trimmed and 30,000 shrubs and trees planted in parks and playgrounds.

Playgrounds—Four new playgrounds were added—the Cooper, Whitten, Restin Orr, and William Hale Thompson playgrounds. At the seventy-two playgrounds more than 15,000,000 children played.

Bridges—Two new bridges—the Monroe street and Lawrence avenue spans—were added. Strikes prevented the amount of work on new bridges to reach expectations.

Sanitary bureau—Conducted campaigns against smoke and cold flats. Partly as a result of the anti-smoke campaign, deaths from tuberculosis dropped from 2,487 in 1918 to 2,035 last year, according to Dr. E. Vernon Hill, head of the bureau.

Sewers—The bureau cleaned 6,110,200 feet of sewers at a cost of $40,419.

Waste disposal—The municipal reduction plant reduced 83,000 tons of garbage, producing 3,153,020 pounds of garbage grease, which was sold for $182,318.

Oil inspector—Inspector Hugh Norris' force passed on 1,612,151 barrels of oil, gasoline, and naphtha.

Municipal pier—Approximately 4,000,000 persons visited the pier, according to Supt. Hugo Krause's report. Receipts were $186,607.

It raises your cakes, biscuits and muffins just right—makes the most of good materials; known to careful housewives as the baking powder with a food value. The pound tin contains 16 ounces, full weight.

SEIZE PREVOST FOR THIRD TIME IN BROWN CASE

Vester Girl Visits Cell to Accuse Him.

Mount Clemens, Mich., Jan. 1.—(Special.)—For the third time Lloyd Prevost was locked up in the county jail here today in connection with the murder of his chum and roommate, J. Stanley Brown.

E. P. Torrey, acting sheriff, announced that Prevost was held as a witness on a summons issued last night by Justice Sawn, and that there was no charge against him. He desired, however, that he would fight any attempt to free the prisoner on a writ of habeas corpus.

"I am holding Prevost because of the weight of the evidence against him and because a new witness has entered the case," said Torrey. "The statement of the new witness is that the night of the murder he saw one of the Prevosts on the owl car. He does not know one from the other, but thought it was Lloyd. The car is the typical one a person would have taken had he walked to the city jail for the scene of the crime. If the new witness identifies Lloyd as the man he saw, I will arrest Lloyd for the murder."

Vester Girl Accuses Prevost.
A dramatic scene was enacted in the county jail this morning when Mrs. Cecil Vester, the Battle Creek divorcee and the only person now charged with the crime, faced Prevost, her former sweetheart, and accused him of the slaying.
Prevost sat with his head bowed when the girl walked into the cell room.
"You killed Stan Brown and you know it," Cecil said, shaking her finger in his face. "You are trying to make me the goat. You wish to cover up your deed by letting the suffer. You wish me to be brought here. I was glad to come here and tell all I know. I wanted to face you. I want to face daddy and her lies."
"What have you got to say to that?" Prevost was asked.
"Nothing," he replied, without lifting his head. "I want to talk to my lawyer."

His request was finally complied with and George W. Johns, a local attorney, was closeted with his client for several hours.
May Clear Vester Girl.
An estimation that Mrs. Vester would be cleared of complicity in the crime was dropped by Prosecutor Winston when the girl asked to be permitted to send to Battle Creek for a lawyer.
"You do not need any lawyer and probably will not," the prosecutor told her. "If you do need one, I'll tell you, but I don't want you to spend the money needlessly."

ICE ILLUMINATED

Fountain, Nature, and Electricity Decorate Christmas Tree.

Every winter an ice clad monarch of the north winds greets motorists and pedestrians at Grand boulevard and Thirty-fifth street. This season the Christmas tree has been unusually beautiful. The effect is obtained by turning on the fountain and letting the spray trickle down the branches of the tree placed beside of the bowl.

When the weather permits the water is allowed to trickle over the icicles beneath colored lights. and countered with one that a man resembling the murder victim be dressed in the slain man's clothes and sent into Prevost's cell at midnight to accuse him of the crime. In the hope that this would break down his protestations of innocence.

The acting sheriff did not commit himself on the idea.

Gladys Summitt and probably Dolly Bennett, two witnesses whose stories caused the arrest of Mrs. Vester, will be brought to Mount Clemens on Saturday morning to appear at the initial hearing of the case against the woman.

$2,500,000 PAY RAISES ASKED OF BUDGET MAKERS

Bricklayers Want $10; Others Ask Boost.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The limit has not been reached. The 1920 wage scale for bricklayers is to be $10 a day. They have so far received $8.50 a day and $7.50 a week.

ALBINO ARCHER

The bricklayers were getting $5.50 in 1912. Then they hopped to $6 in 1913, to $7 in 1918, and to $8 in 1919. The building trades were on a strike the greater part of the last construction season to get $5 for the carpenters. The contractors thought it was too much.

Other Industrial Raises.
But things have happened in three of the largest industries since. It has been brought out that the steel workers have been boosted 137 per cent since the war started. The war increase of packing house workers has been announced as 152 per cent, on an hourly basis. The coal miners have gone up 73.3 per cent, and a presidential commission is now deciding whether more should be added.

The Chicago bricklayers' scale has advanced 42.9 per cent since 1912, and the requested wage of $10 will make a total of only 78.4 per cent.

Other unions are doing the same sort of thing which the bricklayers have announced. Glance over the wage scale below of a score of trades, taken from city records, with the accompanying percentage of wage increases, and the trouble ahead appears in plain view.

Trade	1912	1919	Pct.
Bricklayer	$5.50	$10.00	81.8
Machinist	$5.00	$8.50	70.0
Machinist helper	$4.00	$7.00	75.0
Sheet metal worker	$5.00	$8.00	60.0
Iron molder	$5.00	$7.00	40.0
Painter	$5.00	$7.00	40.0
Plumber	$5.00	$7.00	40.0
Roofing laborer	$5.00	$7.00	40.0
Construction laborer	$5.00	$7.00	40.0
Building laborer	$5.00	$7.00	40.0

Of course the finance committee will say that it has no money to increase wages. It hasn't. But the union business agents will come back and cite the record of the aldermen on the hire of teams and cars.

Political Patronage Up.

These are ash, garbage, and refuse vehicles. They are purely political patronage. It takes pull to get a team employed. Some of the aldermen have been given teams for their constituents and in future vote of occasions as they are requested. The city paid $2.75 a day for carts in 1912; now $7. That is an increase of more than 250 per cent. The city paid $1.50 a day for carts in 1912; now $7. That is an increase of more than 400 per cent. So it seems reasonable to pay this year from $1,500 to $2,500.

tain the city will meet the demands of union labor. Probably the poor clerk will be thrown a bone. That is their luck. An efficiency quest in the finance committee room shows the average income of 113 selected clerks has increased only 17.4 per cent since 1913. By grades the clerk's data are even more striking. The average income of the different groups of clerks in 1913 and 1919, together with the percentage of increase, is shown in the following tabulation:

Average Income, Per cent	1913	1919	Increase
Clerk	$3,250	$3,800	16.9
Chief	$4,250	$5,000	17.6
Head	$5,250	$6,000	14.3
Principal	$6,250	$7,000	11.2
Senior	$7,250	$8,000	10.2
Junior	$8,250	$9,000	9.0
Assistant	$9,250	$10,000	8.2

A large number of the clerks went on strike last year and they got an increase over the previous year of 4.22 per cent. Between 1915 and 1919 the firemen got a salary increase which boosted their average income 35 per cent. In the same period the average policeman's income went up 48 per cent. Both bodies to jump their maximum. Both bodies to jump their maximum. Both bodies to jump their maximum.

FIRE DRILLS IN EVANSTON PLAN OF CITY OFFICIAL

If in the near future you should see an Evanston millionaire rushing from his home with a precious painting under his arm, or the butler hurrying out with the silver plate, or a maid running down the steps with the pet Pomeranian, don't suspect an earthquake or a conflagration. It will only be Evanston going through its fire drill.

F. S. Anderson, Evanston's building commissioner, made, as his New Year's resolution yesterday, plans to work for the passage of an ordinance compelling fire drills in the homes.

While there have been no dangerous fires in Evanston recently, there are lots of frame houses in the north shore suburb and Mr. Anderson believes in preparedness.

DRAINAGE BOARD SHADOW BOXES ANOTHER ROUND

Statements Fly as Third Minority Meeting Fails.

Failure of the third attempt in three days by minority members of the sanitary district board to hold a meeting, because the majority, led by President Charles H. Sergel, remained away and prevented a quorum, brought an exchange of warm manifestos yesterday between President Sergel and Trustee Wallace G. Clark, minority leader.

Mr. Clark declared he believed Mr. Sergel and his followers never would attend a meeting if they had to face the questions.

"Since they would rather let business go unattended than answer me," added, "I am willing to forego asking these questions for the present if they will only meet and attend to the public's business."

Sergel Strikes Back.

President Sergel in a formal statement characterized the minority attempts as "rump" meetings.

"No meetings have been held," he said, "because there was no important business to be transacted. The saving of cash discounts on bills for supplies (Clark had charged the discounts were imperiled by the failure of the meeting) is not a matter to be taken care of in board meetings, but is an administrative detail handled by the clerk, who uses an emergency fund."

Mr. Clark Comes Back.

Mr. Clark declared this statement was evidence "Mr. Sergel knew little about the business of the sanitary district."

"The emergency fund of which he speaks," said Mr. Clark, "is unavailable after the year closes. He cannot get away from the fact that the business of the district has been in chaos for weeks. The morale of the technical department is shattered. The employees know the change in the chairmanship of the employment committee was made because certain members wished to inject spoils politics into it. No man is sure of his job today, from the highest to the lowest employee."

HINTS TO LONG LIFE GIVEN BY NONAGENARIAN

Here are a few hints to longevity, as given by Mrs. Loretta Hosford, who will celebrate her ninety-fifth birthday on Sunday.

Maintain a happy frame of mind. Never worry.

Read good books.

Keep your mind occupied and your hands busy with the housework.

Go to the movies when they are wholesome and optimistic.

Despite her age, Mrs. Hosford follows this program. She makes her daughter, Mrs. Cyrenus A. Peck, at 1414 Fifth street. Her husband died thirteen years ago at the age of 82 years.

COME TO PAN-AMERICAN.

New York, Jan. 1.—Three Russian delegates to the Pan-American congress arrived here today on the steamer Colon from Cristobal and Port Au Prince. They are Fernand Denis, Horace Etheart, and Fleury Feltre.

FOUR CONFESS PLAN TO HOLD UP JEWELRY SHOP

Four holdup men, who have been identified by four victims and who confessed to the Fillmore street police that they were planning to hold up the Heller-Rose Jewelry company's place in the Marshall Field annex, were taken into custody yesterday.

Detective Sergeants William Sheehan and Richard Collins.

Max Siegel, 1445 South Spaulding avenue, and Theodore Siegel, 1445 West Fifteenth street, reported to the police that they had been robbed of $20 by two men at Spaulding avenue and Thirty-second street on Dec. 26. Theodore admitted he had not been searched.

He was taken into custody and confessed that he had planned the holdup with Earl Fraher and Samuel Kauffman, who when arrested gave their address as 822 South Wabash avenue.

Carl Friedlander, 252 West Twelfth street, a fourth member of the band, also was arrested.

They were identified by Morris Palone, 148 South Lawndale avenue; James Nelson, 2319 North Sacramento avenue; John Johnson, 2232 North Lawndale avenue, and Otto Wagner, 524 South Laramie avenue, all of whom lost sums ranging from $10 to $30.

COURT WILL GET VELVET CURTAINS DESPITE COUNCIL

JUDGE HARRY OLSON'S New Year's dinner was not disturbed by the failure of the council finance committee to grant a request that $3,001 be expended in furnishing the offices of the Municipal court chief justice.

The aldermen shoved the judge's request for "velvet curtains with lambrèques," wilton carpet and walnut furniture into the discard Wednesday, declaring the chief justice wants "extravagant."

"The court is self-governing and we don't have to submit to the finance committee's rulings in such matters," said the judge. "We are one of the taxing bodies and can spend our own money."

"Two firms submitted bids and I approved the best one. I will take no action until I receive the official report of the finance committee."

FOURTEEN AUTOMOBILES
Stolen in New Year

The first stolen automobile to be reported to the police in 1920 was that of Frank L. Miller, 6357 South Halsted street. The machine was found abandoned. Thirteen other automobiles were stolen yesterday.

BIRMINGHAM AND M'GINNIS LEAD AS SLEUTHS

Detective Sergeants Edward Birmingham and John J. McGinnis top the efficiency list of the criminal section of the detective bureau, and lead all others by 100 points.

Albert J. Boschulte and William Stapleton are second and George Friend and William Kennedy are third on it.

In the automobile section Charles Sweeney and David Revere are first, and the two "Mikes," Neary and Vaughn, usually the leaders, are runners up.

Leonard Burch and John Bahr are the leaders in the pawnshop section.

English Class

Monday Eve. Kimball Hall

Next Monday evening a new class for ladies will begin a series of fifteen lessons in the study of pronunciation, punctuation, sentence structure, and English literature. Circulars, printed and beautifully illustrated, will be used in the presentation of this course. Every minute of every session will be a happy one, and every hour will be replete with the things that count most for better thought and larger speech. Come and let us acquire an improvement, the value of which neither money nor years can measure.

The class will meet once each week and the work will be directed by Mr. Roberts, author of "Exceptional Course in English." The cost including circulars will be only $7. First payment $5. Telephone Rogers Park 254.

PUPPY LOVE BEN FOUND FREEZING IN LOOP DOORWAY

Hero of "Kid Triangle" in Serious Condition.

Bennie Sokolonski, 12 years old, nicknamed "Puppy Love Bennie" by nurses at the county hospital after he was found shivering in an ash can on Christmas morning following a "love triangle" in kidland, again was taken to the hospital at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been found unconscious and freezing in a doorway at State and Madison streets. His condition this time, the nurses say, is serious.

Bennie had been missing from his home at 909 West Erie street since Monday, just a few days after he was permitted to leave the hospital.

Deaf to Father's Pleas. When his father visited him yesterday afternoon Bennie failed to recognize him and stared blankly at the ceiling of ward 54.

"Bennie, talk to me. Don't you see me?" The elder Sokolonski pleaded. There was no response. When Bennie first emerged from the ash can into the limelight on Christmas morning a note was found gripped in his hand. It was written by Annie Barry, who signed it "Your loving wife Annie." Annie's parents live in the upper flat of the Sokolonski home, and when Florence, another girl living a few doors away, came into his life, Bennie, the police say, decided to end it all after receiving the rebuking letter from Annie.

He will have to stay in the hospital the nurses say, for at least a week.

WILSON SIGNS SUGAR CONTROL BILL; CAN'T BUY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—President Wilson has signed the McNary bill controlling the United States sugar equalization board through 1920.

It was announced today at the White House that his signature had been attached before midnight last night, Secretary Tumulty saying: "The president has signed the sugar control bill. The bill confers discretion on the president in the matter of purchasing sugar from Cuba. It is doubtful whether it will be practicable or wise for the president to exercise the power conferred as far as the purchase and distribution of sugar are concerned."

Some of the Cuban sugar has already been purchased, and there is no central control over sugar in Cuba, as there was last year, and it might therefore be impossible for the government now to step in and purchase the sugar without increasing the price to the consumer.

The bill, however, continues the licensing power also, and this power may be used to assist in controlling the profiteering among distributors.

HARVARD'S CRIMSON TRIUMPHS OVER OREGON BY 7 TO 6

COMBINES TRICKS WITH BATTERING LINE ONSLAUGHT

Great Fight by Western Team; Steers Star.

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—With 35,000 looking on, Harvard succeeded in breaking the string of humiliations imposed on eastern football teams who visit this section by defeating Oregon this afternoon on the Tournament of Roses field, 7 to 6. Although the breaks, both deserved and otherwise, went against the Crimson, the eleven which came here from Cambridge less than a week ago got in its scoring punch early, and then, playing on its nerve, outgeneraled the opposing team during the final half.

Just as did the previous visitors from Brown and Pennsylvania, Harvard started the second play on the quarter found "Bad Bill" Steers directing an easy five yard line. Steers had done some wonderful work up to this time, and a few plays later he was helped of the field after being madly tackled by Arnold Horween, who shared with Eddie Casey the offensive as well as defensive honors of the game.

Harvard's score was made after Murray caught a punt from Steers on the forty yard line. Passes similar to those which Casey handled against Princeton and Yale for scores which tied the Tigers and defeated the Elites netted the Crimson forty yards, with Murray passing the ball twice. A Horween then furnished a fine bit of line bucking, and Freddie Church, who has been out of the game much of the season, circled wide, with Arnold Horween and Casey preceding him, and scored after a fifty yard run.

Manured Duplicates Steers' Book. Oregon's final score was made by Manured on a drop kick after the ball had been carried from their forty yard line, chiefly by off-tackle plays. Steers and Manured both lost two other chances to drop-kick. Twice kicks were blocked but recovered by Oregon.

Western football as practiced by Oregon consisted of a straight attack by its heavy backs. Headed by hefty, fast interference, with the minimum of time between plays, the unbalanced line and quick shifts at first disconcerted the Harvard men, but they soon learned to fathom the style, and Oregon found that only off tackle was she able to gain, and then only infrequently.

Opposed to speed and power, Harvard had power and deception. The team which has scrimmaged just twenty minutes since the Yale game, fumbled four or five times during the first three quarters, and Oregon followed the ball so much closer that all the mistakes, with one or two exceptions, were finally tucked under Oregon's arms.

Oregon Weak at Pass Game. The much wanted reputation of Oregon on forward passes did not materialize, only one being completed, and then its advance was nullified through a penalty. Harvard completed four of its six tosses, Casey handling them. The all-American half back failed to reach a long one from Murray early in the game, and Church also was unable to complete an aerial from Felton.

Oregon showed that tricky plays were of no avail, and deprived of these had not the touchdown punch that Harvard showed when opportunity presented itself.

Oregon found Harvard's tackles the best place to start an offense, especially against the right side of the line. Sedgwick proved a power in the Harvard defense, but his fellow tackle, Kane, was so much used up that he was taken out for a short rest, Brown taking up the task of stopping the catagorizing Oregon attack.

Barlett Stars in Line. Ken Barlett, Oregon's left tackle, proved the giant man in Oregon's drive, and broke through and made most of the tackles. On defense he was like a stone wall; in fact, during Harvard's long march of seventy-nine yards in the final period the big gains made by Arnold Horween, who carried the ball in four out of five rushes, were made inside the tackles. Sid Leslie, who was Barlett's tackle mate, played strongly defensively, but could do little in opening up holes.

The injury to Steers undoubtedly slowed him up, and when he returned to the game in the final period he had not much of his speed and strength. Halls Huntington was the outstanding back in the Oregon team, and fairly took through holes made for him by Barlett time after time.

Penalty Sends Oregon Back. The nearest approach to the Harvard goal by Oregon was in the second period, when Huntington got as far as the ten yard line, but penalty of fifteen yards and an incomplete forward pass forced "Sweet" Murray to drop kick, and in this he was successful.

Aside from its touchdown Harvard only once reached well into Oregon territory, and was held at the half yard line as the game closed.

Capt. Murray handled his machine well and was taken out only when Coach Fisher saw a break and, deprived of Ralph Horween, his drop kicker, sent in Babe Felton. He was in the line when Harvard pushed into its touchdown and the clean delivery of his passer which the eager Casey pulled out of the zone had much to do with the Harvard triumph.

Casey Well Covered. Casey played his usual fine game, but was covered practically all the time with the exception of when he was a factor in the forward passing.

Arnold Horween made eight and ten yards at a rush when Harvard was making its big drive in the final period and proved the most stalwart of the

"TOUGH BATTLE," SAYS FISHER, HARVARD COACH

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 1.—The Harvard team in defeating Oregon today played the hardest game of the season, Coach Robert Fisher of Harvard said tonight.

"We came 3,000 miles to lick Oregon," Fisher said, "and we did it. We had the better team, but Oregon had a better team than I expected. It was the first scrimmage Harvard had since its game with Yale and naturally the men were not in good condition. The boys went through the game largely on pluck."

"Oregon played a hard, clean game," Fisher said.

The Harvard team will leave for Cambridge tomorrow morning. Shortly after the Oregon men had left the field, Coach "Bim" Huntington said he had no comment except that "we played a hard, clean game and I think we made a good showing. Harvard has a great team."

team on the defensive, although Casey, too, was well in on all mass plays.

Despite his slight build, Casey was not injured once, although he was tackled hard enough. Desmond played a smashing defensive game at right wing, where he was shifted since the game came west, and Steele was not far behind.

Crimson Backs Nervous. Harvard passed slowly from center and the Harvard fumbles were due to the nervousness of his backs rather than to any fault of his own. Church, likewise, proved a power in the Harvard offense in at least two instances when wide end runs were called for and on one went across for the touchdown. He did most of the punting and outkicked Manured, who took up the kicking task when Steers was taken out.

TOLEDO HIGH PLAYS 7-7 TIE AT EVERETT; 6 INCHES FROM WIN

Everett, Wash., Jan. 1.—Everett high school and Scott high of Toledo, O., played a 7 to 7 football tie game today. Their game was billed for the national preparatory school championship. The field was hard and firm when the game began, but a warm sun, melting the frost, developed slippery going, and the third and fourth periods were played in a field of mud. A crowd estimated at over 8,000 witnessed the contest.

Coast Boys Start Fast. The Everett team played the easterners of their feet in the first period, rushing the ball down the field, with Toledo's line failing to hold. Hickey carried the ball over for a touchdown, Sherman for Everett kicking goal.

Toledo retaliated in the second period. After a series of criss-cross and line plays down the field, Andrews scored on a modification of the criss-cross, and Scherer kicked goal, tying the score.

Miss Victory by Six Inches. Exchanges of kicks and line bucks featured the third and fourth periods, the muddy field making open football almost impossible.

Toledo brought the spectators to their feet a few minutes before the game ended by pushing the ball to within six inches of the Everett goal. The Everett team held there, and the final whistle blared in the Harvard stadium the hopes of the eastern team.

MAY ENACT LAWS FOR COMPULSORY 'PREP' ATHLETICS

New York, Jan. 1.—Steps to enact of national and state laws requiring compulsory athletic training for high school students will be taken by the Athletic Research Society of America, it became known today. The society, which concluded its annual meeting yesterday, named the following committee to frame the proposed legislation: Dr. J. H. McCurdy, Springfield, Mass.; Dr. M. C. A. College; Dr. J. E. Raymond, Princeton; and Dr. Dudley B. Reed of the University of Chicago.

The society also plans to wage a campaign in favor of requiring physical education for entrance into and graduation from college.

Skinner Wins West Side "Y" Public School Meets

Skinner grammar school boys won the pennant for combined indoor swimming and track games at West Side Y. M. C. A. yesterday, scoring a victory over a field of four school teams. The events were the first of a series of the joint meets to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. for west side grade schools. Yesterday's events were close, the final totals being: Skinner, 28 1/2 points; Brown, 26 1/2; Grant, 19; McLaren, 18.

Wounded Doughboys to Be Guests at Mat Show

Col. Abel Davis, who was in command of the 132d infantry in France, is taking a keen interest in the wrestling show at the Second regiment armory on Jan. 7. Most of Col. Davis' unit are members of Forge post, which is staging the show, with the aid of Doc Krone. Wounded soldiers at Fort Sheridan who were members of Col. Davis' regiment will be featured by the finish match between Marin Plesina and Henry Ordeman.

Thorpe Trims Stevenson in Ring Bout at Detroit

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 1.—Harvey Thorpe of Kansas City easily outpointed Mel Stevenson of Pittsburgh in the opinion of a majority of newspaper men. Stevenson was down for a count of five in the fifth round and took considerable punishment throughout the remainder of the bout. The men weighed in at 140.

Homer Smith Given Real Glove Shower by Madden

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 1.—Bartley Madden of New York over Homer Smith, heavyweight champion of Michigan, in ten hard fought rounds tonight. Smith was badly battered and took the count of nine in the ninth round. The Michigan man was handicapped from the third round, when he injured his left hand.

CHARLEY WHITE LANDS QUICK K. O. Portland, Ore., Jan. 1.—Charley White, the Chicago lightweight, knocked out Muff Bronson of Portland in the first round of a scheduled ten round bout here today.

Boy McCormick, light heavyweight champion of England, knocked out Frank Farmer, light heavyweight champion of the Pacific coast, in the ninth round of a scheduled ten round bout. Up the end and the bout was fairly even with McCormick the aggressor, but Farmer landed many clean punches.

Reich Puts Lawson to Sleep After Hard Battle

New York, Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Another notch was cut in Al Reich's record of ups and downs tonight at the Bayonne A. C. in Jersey City. After taking enough punishment to send an ordinary heavy-weight to peaceful slumber and happy dreams, Reich pulled himself together, wiped the gory signs of his bout from his bleeding face, and clouded Mexican Joe Lawson of Texas so hard in the sixth round that the referee counted ten over the southerner. The big New Yorker weighed 206 and had an advantage of seventeen pounds over the Texan, who scaled 189.

Jack Britton Has Better of Go with Johnny Gill

Harriburg, Pa., Jan. 1.—Jack Britton, welterweight champion, was awarded the newspaper decision in a ten round bout with Johnny Gill, of Steelton, at that place today.

BATTLING BOB MARTIN ADDS JACK M'FARLAND TO HIS KAYO VICTIMS

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Before the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a boxing contest in Michigan since the death of Bob Martin, A. E. F. champion, knocked out Jack [Knockout] McFarland in the fifth round of a scheduled ten round bout. It was Martin's fight through-out, and McFarland failed to land over a half dozen effective blows.

The bell saved McFarland from defeat in the third round, when Martin sent him to the ropes with a smashing left. He fell to the mat, but the going sounded at the count of five.

Martin presented a fine defense and was in prime condition. McFarland outwitted Martin twenty-one pounds.

ROSTAN-CROSS BOUT ENDS EVEN IN AURORA RING

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Marty Cross of New York and Navy Rostan performed before a packed house here tonight, but their win-dup of ten rounds was a tame affair. Both seemed a bit timid about getting in the way of hard wallops. No decision was given, a new rule having been adopted here barring verdicts, but ringers figured a draw fitted the case.

The best bout of the night was furnished by Sammy Butts and Jimmy Kelly, a pair of Chicago 116 pounders. This also resulted in a six round draw.

George Young and Lee Troman, 140 pounders, went eight rounds to an even break. In the other contest Kid O'Brien stopped Kid Rosner in four rounds, a towel being tossed into the ring by Rosner's seconds when the going sounded for the sixth session. They weighed 135 pounds.

About 800 fans, among them, fifty women, sat at the ringside.

Knockout Brennan Lams Duffy in Catchweight Go

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Knockout Brennan, fighting his first bout since the war, carried too many guns for Jimmy Duffy in ten rounds before 7,000 members of the Queens-bury club this afternoon. Brennan was wild as a hawk at the opening and was a target for Duffy's fast left. After the fourth round, however, he found the range and powerful punches to the head mugged Duffy. He staggered Duffy in the seventh and eighth and had him groggy in the ninth. It was a catchweight match to settle local rivalry. Duffy weighed 149, Brennan 161.

BOUTS IN PHILLY DRAW BIG CROWD; KILBANE WINNER

Feather Champ Beats Shubert; Smith Victor.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—More than 12,000 boxing fans crowded into the four local boxing clubs here today to see twenty-four bouts between champions, runners-up, and lesser lights of the ring.

In one of the big bouts of the day, Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight king, defeated Al Shubert of New Bedford in six rounds at the Olympia A. C. Kilbane was the aggressor throughout, but Shubert kept him fighting to the finish.

Jeff Smith, who is trailing Georges Carpentier for a bout, so outclassed Art Magli of Oklahoma that the latter's seconds threw up the sponge in the third round at the National A. C.

Results of Other Bouts. The other bouts at the National, all of which went six rounds, resulted as follows: Joe Mendell and Joe Nelson, draw. K. O. Loughlin shaded Billy Kramer of Milwaukee. Max Williamson earned a draw with Bobby Dwyer of New Bedford.

Eddie May of Allentown outpointed Mickey Dwyer of Newark. Frankie Brown took a pasting from George Chaney of Baltimore.

The remaining affair at the Olympia resulted in Harold Fawcett, of New York, having little trouble in taking the measure of Louisiana in six fast rounds.

Cline Fouts Latzo. Irish Fatsy Cline of New York felled Steve Latzo of Hazelton in the fourth round, and the victim was unable to continue. Billy Affleck of England outboxed Willie Hannon, a local boy, in six fast rounds.

Johnny Mealy shaded George Eysenolds in the second bout, and in the opener Frankie Conway and Frankie Jerome of New York boxed a six round draw.

In the windup at the Cambria A. C., Puggy Lee easily outpointed Willie McCleekie in six rounds, and Joe Welsh, of this city, won easily over Johnny Summers, of New York, in the six round principal bout at the Auditorium A. C.

RAY RIVERS AND HENRY DRAW. Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Ray Rivers of Los Angeles and Kid Henry of New York fought ten fast rounds to a draw here tonight. The bout was one of the best seen here in months.

Styles New and Delightful—Prices Surprisingly Low

Advantages the January Sale of Women's Blouses Brings

THIS Annual Sale commences this morning and there are such scores of unusual new styles that any woman who is going South or who wishes Blouses for Spring will make special arrangements to see the assortment while styles and sizes are complete. Pictured above are just seven of the many equally novel, pleasing and fresh models priced so specially.

New Ideas, as Well as Low Prices: $2.50 to $22.50

At $5.75—comes a charming marquisette Blouse, with collar and cuffs ruffled and lace trimmed.

At $8.75—Distinctive voile Blouse with collar, vestee and smart cuffs of rose or old blue block-printed handkerchief linen.

At $15—Tailored crepe de Chine Blouse with simple collar and cuffs, trimmed with white tucks.

At $16.75—Delightful slipover effect in tinted crepe Georgette Blouse, with tucked and lace-edged tabs for trimming round neck and short sleeves. It fastens invisibly at the side back.

At $22.50—Allover embroidery is an exclusive idea for trimming, and the Blouse which boasts a long front panel of it is certain to be popular. There is a little back collar of it, too, and ties for further charm.

At $22.50—Peach and other lovely tints come in the Blouse of crepe Georgette sketched at the right, with Fillet lace trimming and hand embroidery.

In addition, there are imported as well as batistes, crepes de Chine and Georgette, imported Swisses, Cross-barred dimities, white and colored handkerchief linens, and many interesting novelties, tailored and elaborate.

England and Egypt Meet in Love and War

"THE FLAME OF THE DESERT"

Produced by Goldwyn.
Directed by Reinhold Barker.
Presented at the Castle.

THE CAST.
Lady Isabel Channing, Geraldine Farrar
Sheik Essad, Lou Tellegen
Sir John Cartwright, Alec Francis
Lady Snowden, Josephine Chapman
Sir Charles Channing, Casson Ferguson
Abdullah Bey, Maury Harlan
Abdullah, Harry De Cord
Sheik Ibrahim, Miles Dobson
A Desert Sheikh, Jim Mason
A Desert Sheikh, Louis Durham
Ullah, Ely Stanton

By Mae Tinee.

"The Flame of the Desert" proves the best vehicle Miss Farrar and her husband, Lou Tellegen, have had for some time.

It is a story with scenes laid in England and Egypt; with a warm love story winding through a turbid chaos of politics and revolution. Mr. Tellegen, swathed in the things worshippers of Mohammed swathe themselves in, is first met as Sheik Essad, head of a delegation that attends the peace ball at the Channing estate. Miss Farrar is Lady Isabel Channing, daughter of a proud English family.

Fate and a weakling brother take her to Egypt, where, against all the promptings of head and common sense, she learns to love the stalwart Sheik Essad.

A surprise at the end, however, justifies the call of her heart.

There is some beautiful scenery, and photography that captivates the eye. Mr. Tellegen does his usual powerful and seems quite human. Miss Farrar is gracious and charming, but one must suggest that perhaps a diet of roast beef and spinach is becoming advisable. We cannot have the lady wading.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

In Love in School.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 16 years and am in love with a very good looking boy of 17. He is a senior in high school, and I am a freshman. He really loves me, I am sure, because we have had four misunderstandings and each time he has come back and made up. I really love him, and he knows it. "We are engaged to be married at a set date, and he wants to know if I want a ring. I don't think I ought to wear one. Do you?"

"He kisses me all he wants, now that we are engaged—is this all right?"

"Please tell me how old I have to be to marry."

"Don't you think, young lady, you are stealing big sister's rights in getting yourself engaged and all that sort of thing? You haven't any right to be engaged during school days nor to accept a ring from a young man not yet out of school. It looks to me as though this all might be an excuse for wholesale kissing. You'd better hold your kisses for a few years. A little profane-teasing along this line doesn't do any young woman any harm, nor does she stand in any danger of the law getting her. In other words, save your kisses, dear!"

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $1. for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unsuitable contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunt Bee, Tribune, Chicago.

With all the enthusiasm of a 7 year old John was awaiting the descent of Santa Claus down the chimney on Christmas eve. A few nights before, when the wind was blowing there was a whistling sound at the fireplace and drawing his aunt close to the fireplace and listening, in an awed whisper he said: "You can hear him brevin'!" [Breathin']

At the dinner table my young brother asked for the third helping of goose and dumpling. When he went away from the table I called him a little cannibal, and he replied, "Me surely is a cannibal when there's good goose."

A Friend in Need

Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friend in need and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has outgrown its usefulness that will make some other person happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how. I want to be the medium through which you can help someone else. Please write on one side of the paper. When information is wanted by mail, stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

All Need Clothes.

"Who has a suit for a boy of 15 or 16? The boy whom I am writing for is the only support of the family. His father is in the last stages of tuberculosis. The boy has two sisters, 10 and 13, respectively, who are in great need of clothing, but, above all, winter coats."

HOME MADE BUTTER

BY FRANK RIDGEWAY.

More than a ton of butter for every minute, day and night, was produced last year in the United States. Notwithstanding this enormous output there is a scarcity of butter for domestic needs and the prices are going higher. There is an increase in the number of cows being milked and this is one of the factors that has enabled the industry to show an increase of approximately 200,000,000 pounds of factory butter each ten years since 1880.

Another factor, probably just as important as the increase in the size of the dairy herd, which is now more than 23,000,000, is the improvement in the methods employed in handling the milk and cream.

The tendency now is toward the production of less and less farm butter, which is being superseded by factory products. This need not be the case, for if more care is used in keeping cream free from contamination and at the proper temperature until time for churning, better butter will be produced. With the present high prices butter making at home will pay.

Strain the milk and put it in a cool place immediately after it is drawn from the cow. Four the milk in tall cans that can be well covered to keep out dirt and insects.

Tall cans are especially desirable for allowing the cream to rise, if cream separators are not used. If the separator is used the cream should be put in a cool place immediately after separating.

There should be little difficulty in finding a suitable place to store cream at this time of the year, but storing cream in the kitchen or living room is a common mistake made in cold weather, resulting in undesirable butter.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Using a Plank.

M. J. M. writes: "Would you kindly give in your column some directions for using a plank with steaks, chops, and fish, especially a new plank which has never been tempered or seasoned in any way?"

The fine planks that are made to fit platters today are mainly used for serving fish or steaks or eggs or broiled chicken on. They hold the heat well and cooked fish piping hot is much more palatable than when it is lukewarm. The plank is heated and buttered, mashed potato is piped around the edge, the cooked fish or meat is put in the center, butter is heated over the whole, and the whole put into a hot oven till the potato is browned. The whole plank is covered and the wood ought not to burn in the time required to cook the food.

Of course a plank must be washed before it is used, and any scrubbing should be with the grain of the wood. It should be dried in the air, not over anything hot, which treatment will warp even hard wood. After scrubbing and rinsing well in plain water, rinse in soda water to make it perfectly sweet. Shad, haddock, and white fish are split down the back, but skin down a hot buttered plank, broiled and broiled, or baked in oven.

PATTERNS BY CLOTHILDE

GIRL'S LONG WAISTED DRESS.

This pretty dress has several attractive features in the collar, sash, and little tunic.

This pattern, 9318, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/2 yards of 40-inch material and 3/4 yard of 36-inch contrasting for trimming bands and 2 1/4 yards of ribbon for the sash.

Girls! Your hair needs a little "Danderine"—that's all! When it becomes lifeless, thin, or loses its lustre; when ugly dandruff appears, or your hair falls out, a 35-cent bottle of delightful, dependable "Danderine" from any store, will save your hair, also double its beauty. Try "Danderine" and see!

Giving a Demonstration.

We were having a physiology class in high school and were talking of the control of the nervous system over the body. I was startled by the professor suddenly asking me: "Miss T., what is it that makes you blush?" Blushing furiously, I rose from my seat, but unable to give an answer before the tittering class.

The right soap for Skin Beauty

THE beauty of your skin depends largely upon the healthful activity of the delicate skin-pores.

Fairy Soap leaves the tiny pores healthfully active because its pure lather cleanses so thoroughly, and rinses off easily, perfectly.

Makes friends with pure, easy-rinsing Fairy Soap. But be sure to use Fairy consistently both for your complexion and your bath.

With the Modes for the Winter Traveler Come The First New Fashions of Spring

The fresh new beauty of them pervades the sections. It would seem that never have those who create given more convincing proof of their genius, nor those who select for these assortments given more telling evidence of their unerring good taste. Here is loveliness and youth embodied in tinted organdie as frankly bouffant as any frock of the sixties. There a color harmony so striking it cannot belie its Balkan origin. Here, in a word, is all that is newly created for the new season. The modes featured are representative.

*White Taffeta Quaintly Fluted
A Slim Black Silk Girdle
A Vivid Orange Flower*

That's but two of the distinctive, original modes one notes in frocks. Both are pictured in the sketch above. One at the left center, and it is priced $165. The other at the right center, $110. Then there are frocks of an exquisite soft tissue, crepe Elizabeth, of a Wedgwood blue in tone, braided in bugle beads in designs at once delicate and effective.

A delightful frock for misses is of Shantung, heavily embroidered as to the Cossack blouse in vivid green and pale gold floss. The skirt takes the very new way of skirts in pleats, many but slim and straight. Sketched at the right, $110.

Taffeta frocks in dark colors are high in vogue for more general wear. Exceptionally interesting groups are presented at $55 to $125. Cheruit twill takes on a spring-like charm through its pastel colors in some lovely frocks for afternoon, $200.

Taffeta and Wool Plaid Together in Travel Suits

The skirt is of wool plaid, the coat of taffeta lined in plaid. The debonair scarf of the wool plaid, and the effect uncommonly smart. This is the woman's suit sketched at the left. $115. Suits of toile de laine and of jersey, $40 to $125.

A Skirt of Striped Frisette and a Coat of Velveteen

Such is the misses' suit sketched at the center. The frisette is, Roman-striped. There is also a full little vest of frisette that gives a final perfect touch to the suit. $125.

Suits for pastime occasions in colorful silks are presented at $50 to $150.

Many of them are of silks, the new, colorful, gleaming silks that reflect the brilliant southern outdoors. Others are planned for town and travel wear.

To Women Who Are Interested in the New When It Is Newest As Well As to Those Planning Winter Travel, These Displays Are of Special Interest.

Fourth Floor

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & Co

Crepe Marquise Egyptian Red Braided in Silvered Silk with Pearl Gray Crepe

Brilliant hues mark these hats. And as if the color of the hat were not enough, the decorations are as vivid in tone. These are the hats to be worn with pastime apparel, and they take the easy debonair lines of tam and sailor.

Hats for travel, modes as much sought for wear at the moment here, combine lissere straw, Batavia cloth and silks. Wings upstanding, fantasies flaring, huge cabochons of straw are the ornamentation.

Hats for the South

Modes in the new vogue individualized are these, as one would expect in the millinery presented in this French Room.
